

WHERE WE WERE, AND WHERE WE GO NEXT

Strategic Planning Process, Spring 2025

The UConn School of Public Policy (SPP) is dedicated to solving pressing societal problems through cutting-edge scholarship, high quality instruction, and relevant service to the profession and society. We are committed to preparing diverse leaders employed in a wide range of professions and prepared with the important skills and competencies to be highly successful in their chosen careers.

We value diverse experiences and perspectives based on the principles of fairness, equity and inclusion with respect for community, integrity, civility, courage, and kindness. We aspire for our research, teaching, and service to be relevant, responsive, inclusive, impactful, evidence-based, and of the highest quality.

NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENTS Moving forward with SPP's next strategic plan, we reflect on achievements, expansion of programs and engagement, and key points of pride illustrating our growth and impact.

FACULTY, RESEARCH, AND ADMINISTRATION We have secured significant funding for research initiatives that address critical local, state, and national policy issues. SPP faculty continue to produce influential research, contributing to national discourse on policy issues and influencing legislation.

RECENT IMPACT STORIES - RESEARCH

IMRP has had a long history of influencing criminal justice, sentencing other areas such as policing and cannabis equity policies in Connecticut. This past year, their work helped pass legislation prioritizing outpatient competency restoration for misdemeanor defendants (PA 24-137).

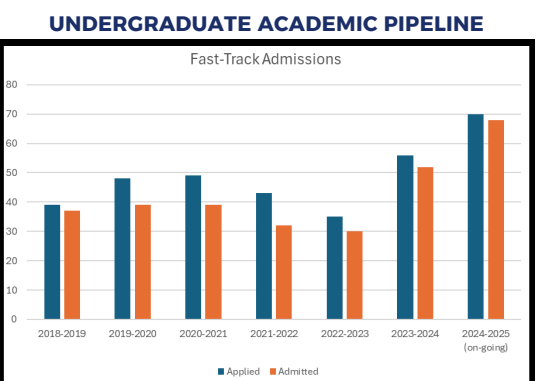

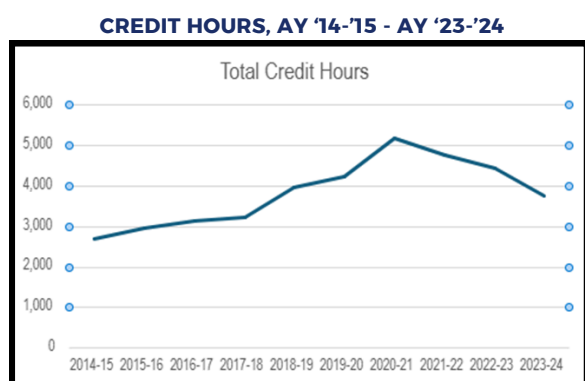

Dr. Eric Brunner recently conducted an evaluation of the Learner Engagement and Attendance Program (LEAP) in collaboration with the Center for Connecticut Education Research Collaboration (CCERC). Based in part on the positive findings from that evaluation, Governor Ned Lamont advocated to include the program in the state budget as a permanent line item.

Dr. Mohamad Alkadry's work on compensation equity done in collaboration with the CT Office of the State Comptroller led Gov. Lamont to issue Executive Order 24-2, Achieving Equity in Connecticut State Government, which among other things, established the Office of Equity and Opportunity within the Office of the Governor.

As the Director of Advancing Research, Methods, and Scholarship for Gun Injury Prevention (ARMS), Dr. Kerri Raissian has been asked to provide testimony to the Connecticut General Assembly, gone to the White House to meet with the Deputy Director of the Office of Gun Violence Prevention, and meets regularly with federal Congressional representatives about evidence-based gun policy.
